Tendering process bypassed

Restructuring group proposes consultant

by Jerry Grozelle

The Haliburton County Restructuring Committee will be seeking outside help in its quest to make municipalities operate more efficiently. A special meeting of the Committee at the Dysart Community Centre Thursday evening saw County Warden Murray Fearrey introduce Dave Barber, Director of the Cordillera Institute, to a group of about 40 people. Barber spoke about restructuring, especially as it relates to small municipalities such as those in Haliburton County.

Barber said there are two common myths regarding restructuring. The first is that small municipalities are not efficient. He pointed out that politicians in small municipalities are more available to the public.

"People know the politicians in small municipalities," Barber said. "They know the politician's phone number and they are not afraid to call at eight or nine o'clock in the evening to voice their concerns."

Since the politician in a small municipality is so accessible, he or she tends to be more acutely aware of the concerns of the taxpayers through personal contact, which, Barber explained, forces him or her to be more responsible with the people's money.

It was also pointed out that the remuneration received by all the local politicians combined wouldn't equal the salary received by one city politician. Therefore, sacrificing representation as a cost saving measure didn't make sense.

Myth number two, according to Barber, is that the way to fix the financial problems in which the province finds itself is amalgamation.

"Politically, independence is available and desirable," he said. "Amalgamation as a solution is incorrect. We need to find other ways to get our financial houses in order."

Sharing of services is one way to cut costs, Barber explained.

Barber said that municipalities across the province are facing the same problems. Municipalities have been providing services that have been subsidized by the federal and provincial governments. As an example, he said that services for which a municipality might have been paying $10, could have had an actual cost of $50 or more. Local governments are going to have to find ways of providing those services with drastically reduced or no funding at all from the upper levels of government.

"The senior levels of government have been making up the difference," he said, adding that the subsidies are being phased out.

Barber made it clear that he does not support the theory that amalgamation is a legitimate cost saving measure. In fact, he says studies have proven that municipalities which have amalgamated have not saved money. He said the municipality of New Tecumseh is often cited as an example of a successful amalgamation. He noted that after amalgamation, taxes increased six per cent across the board.

Sloppy, spirited fun: HHSS students slurp up the filling at a recent pie-eating contest. See story on page 18.

"People in Alliston saw their taxes decrease by 34 per cent, but taxes in the rural areas of the municipality increased by 118 per cent," he said.

Barber has looked at some of the figures locally and he said, "You are already doing a better job than some of the southern municipalities." He added that there are still ways of achieving fur-

Landfill 'open house' rejected

Snowdon landowners demand meeting

by Andrew Milne

Concerned residents are calling an open house announced by Snowdon council this week "a sham."

The furor surrounds a plan by Snowdon council to accept waste from a Whitby area auto wrecker to its Irondale landfill. The waste has been described as 'shredder fluff' — ground up foam fill and other material from vehicle interiors, mixed with glass.

Says Bill Powell, who owns land in the area, "This is a real farce as far as I'm concerned. From what I can understand there are only four or five of us that were quite vocal about this that got this notice... None but a few know.

They're pulling the same shenanigans again."

Says Marg Swanton, "This meeting is good for nothing. It's useless. It's not a meeting... An open house? They're spreading it out, staggering the hours. They figure people will come in, one at a time, and they can try to break it all up."

"I got really angry. I started to shake. I thought oh, you shysters... What I want is that they have a general meeting at our convenience, not theirs. I feel we should have [MPP] Chris Hodgson, and the MOEE, and The Times all there, and as many people as we can possibly get out. And it should be at the community centre, not the township office... This would only be right that they do that for us."

Swanton says she and others concerned with the issue will be attaching such a request to their petition, which they will then deliver to the MOEE directly, if necessary.

At no time, say all concerned, have they been given a genuine, legitimate chance to comment on the issue.

Council's answers to questioning on the meeting seem to make it clear that this will not be such an opportunity either. Residents' comments to council at the meeting will not necessarily be forwarded to the Ministry of the Environment and Energy (MOEE), reeve George Simmons said Saturday. The event, he said, was planned more for council to present its position to residents, than to solicit comments from them.

Said municipal clerk Ernie Hills, "They'll have a chance individually to meet with members of council. We'll put up little displays about how the development plan kicks into the proposal. They can review any documentation they want to look at from the file."

Residents, particularly adjacent landowners, have been particularly critical of council for failing to give them any opportunity to comment, and failing to announce an organized public meet-

Board comments on funding

The board of education responded last week to the province's recent questionnaire on education funding.

The questionnaire, called "Meeting Students' Needs", has stirred some mild controversy due to the very short deadline given boards to respond. Trustees had commented at the time that they were not sure how seriously the province could be taking the issue when boards were given so little time (around three weeks) to respond to the questions.

The questions pertain to issues surrounding education funding, and did ask specifically what special considerations board members feel should be taken into account in funding models for their region. The province says the process is leading toward an attempt to simplify and streamline the currently rather convoluted grant formulae.

Board chair Wendy Ladurantaye says the board's response could be characterized as similar to what they've been saying all along: that the isolated, sprawling, sparsely populated Haliburton jurisdiction has needs that are unusual, and that any reforms will have to take those into account.

Says Ladurantaye, "We made much the same points we've made before — that we're a small board in a big area, and there are a lot of things that come with that... The costs for transportation per student are sometimes higher. You have students living on back roads, and wind up travelling all over the place... I was looking at it more from the perspective of a parent and an educator. With respect to special education, we can't draw enough for special classes for kids. So you have to meet their needs in each school, and that becomes more expensive."

Ladurantaye said also that the board feels it is a crucial factor for this jurisdiction that there are no other boards administering the same territory, as is the case in regions with separate school boards and French language boards, greatly reducing their opportunities for cost sharing. The Haliburton board does, however, have some limited agreements for cost sharing with respect to transportation in regions close to neighbouring boards' jurisdictions.

Ladurantaye also commented on a growing perception that the Ministry of Education and Training's (MOET) policies towards boards may reflect an antagonism over priorities, and that this may explain reports that the province is considering abolishing the boards. Says Ladurantaye, "I think one of the reason the province might want to get rid of boards is that OPSBA (the board association) has been a very strong advocate for the needs of education. The focus has not been the tax dollars. It has been quality education, and they've been a watchdog for that. And if that goes against the attitude of money as the biggest issue, it might follow suit you'd want to get rid of that roadblock. That's my personal feeling. And I'm getting stronger and stronger personal feelings all the time."

Ladurantaye says she has been in touch with the minister of education's office. The province has stated, in response to media reports that it would abolish boards, that this is only one of several options on the table at this point. A report on those options was due in cabinet sometime around the end of October or beginning of November.

Said Ladurantaye, "I did speak to woman I spoke to in the minister's office about how abolishing the boards might affect people — you know — what if you're not the most assertive person, you have no car, you have a grievance, and you have to go to an office in Barrie to make yourself heard. I said to her there are a lot of scenarios out there I don't feel have been thought through well. I invited them to come, to see how Haliburton works. Because it does work. And it's not expensive."

Mental health counselling centre reopens

by Andrew Milne

The Haliburton County Counselling Centre opened last week in the Heritage Plaza in Minden.

The move follows a reorganization, in which the group's administration was transferred from SIRCH to Haliburton Highlands Health Services (HHHS).

The service will be renamed Haliburton Highlands Mental Health Services.

A new program, incorporating the Ministry of Health's Community Investment Fund program, is also running out of the office.

June Partridge, a spokesperson for local users of the system, described herself as "very enthusiastic" about the move.

Said Partridge, "It's nice to see the program moving along, and it's nice to have somewhere to go... The way the new program is set up is meant to give consumer-survivors (users of the mental health care system) a little more control, and I think that's a real step forward."

"Services in areas like this have always been difficult to arrange, and we've got a lot ahead of us. But the doors are open now, at least."

Partridge says the difficulties people with mental health problems have traditionally had in getting access to care from rural regions are many, and severe. Many commute to urban areas with mental health hospitals to get psychiatric care. Some might get no care at all. She hopes, she says, this new centre is going to make a difference.

HHHS executive director Foster Loucks said the program is up and running, though there are still a few minor details to be ironed out.

Says Loucks, "We're still waiting on the MOH for the funding from the CIF program. But we're going ahead anyway. I think it's important for the clients to know that the centre is up and running and available to them, effective as of now."

The move is partly due to local politics, and partly due to provincial initiatives. Clients of the centre and SIRCH management had a falling out during the drafting of a proposal which would have seen SIRCH administer the new program — funded under the MOH's Community Investment Fund Program. That fund is meant to provide services to areas which, like this one, are out of reach of traditional mental hospitals, and also provides for a measure of self-governance by users of the system. SIRCH had been drafting a proposal to administer the fund. Since the split, however, partly at the insistence of clients, it has dropped its bid, and has arranged a handover of the administration of the counselling centre to the HHHS.

Staff from the old centre — including coordinator Jose Urbano — will be assisting at the new one.

The new centre can be reached at 286-4575. SIRCH, which still offers counselling to abused women and their families can be reached at 457-5353.

Sled Dog Derby on track for 1997

Minden Techni-Cal Challenge set for Jan. 18 & 19

by Jerry Grozelle

The date for the 1997 Minden Techni-Cal Challenge sled dog derby is slated for January 18 and 19.

Mushers from all over North America are expected to compete for the $25,100 purse. The event is the largest limited class sled dog derby in the world.

Stu Brandon, one of the Minden event organizers and a Director with the International Sled Dog Racing Association (ISDRA), said he has heard rumours that the event would be moving out of Minden. He assures those who may be concerned that there is no truth to that rumour.

"The derby will be in Minden and we plan on keeping it here," Brandon said.

Responding to the rumour, Val Lougheed, another member of the organizing committee said, "I've never heard anything so foolish in my life. The organizers all live in Minden and nobody is planning on moving."

Lougheed pointed out that the Minden race is "a must attend for anybody who is chasing points in the circuit. They have to come because of the number of points they can get."

Lougheed speculated that the rumour may have started when Martin's Pet Foods, the major sponsor of the event, was sold to Heinz. But Lougheed said that the Martin family is still involved and that Heinz representatives are thrilled to be part of the event. She said that one of the company vice-presidents is planning to attend the 1997 derby, which will be the 13th annual race. She said the Martin family has always been very supportive of how the derby is run and the same enthusiasm is coming from the Heinz representatives.

The fact that last year's event had to be cancelled and replaced with a demonstration race because of the track conditions won't have any detrimental effect on the derby. Safety of the dogs is always the top priority.

"If we won't run our dogs on the track, we don't expect anyone else to," she explained. "And the sponsors wouldn't have it any other way."

The organizing committee of five people is assisted by three Ecotourism students from Sir Sandford Fleming College. More than 120 volunteers help out during the two-day event.

The council (of Anson, Hindon and Minden), the Roads Department, the downtown merchants and the citizens of Minden have always been very supportive and co-operative," Brandon said.

He added that the committee usually approaches the municipal council in December to ask for the required assistance. This year, the committee is scheduled to attend the first meeting in November, a month ahead of last year.

"I'm constantly amazed with the co-operation," Lougheed added. "The community really pulls together. If there wasn't that support, there wouldn't be a race."

Lougheed said the Minden derby is the only one that starts and finishes on the main street.

"That's what makes it such a spectator event here," she said.

Lougheed said that the committee is trying to find another trail, one that by-passes the hill in front of the Anson, Hindon and Minden township shed.

"The track is hard to maintain there," she explained. "We're in the process of talking to property owners to see if we can avoid some of the sticky spots."

Every teller

It is one of the more insidious aspects of bureaucracy that it tends to divide, deflect, and confuse issues of responsibility. Any individual citizen with limited resources who has had a grievance with any large institution, public or private, can describe what it is like to be told 'I'm sorry, that's not my department'. And to have every teller at every window say exactly the same thing.

It is one thing when this occurs out of the natural growth of such institutions. It is another when such confusion is generated and used manipulatively by cynical organizations and individuals refusing to take responsibility for their actions.

The current provincial government, in cutting transfers to partner organizations such as school and health boards, has shown a predictable tendency to attempt to shift as much of the responsibility as it can to those partner agencies. In what seems to be their increasingly antagonistic relationship with the school boards, government sources have shrugged, suggesting it is the boards that spent irresponsibly, and it is to the boards that people should be talking when things start to hurt.

Locally, specifically, citizens involved in the busing issue have been saying that the province would like to see the local board take responsibility for cuts to busing.

This is the same government which so readily trumpets its perceived successes, endlessly pointing to cuts it has managed to make, emphasizing continually what a boon for the future its economists believe them to be.

They seem to want, not surprisingly, all of the credit, and none of the blame. The board, of course, isn't too interested in taking the blame either. In fairness to the province, the federal government plays the same game. It seems particularly hypocritical, however, coming from a government that so eagerly poses as an enemy of bureaucracy, to hide behind it.

One might also inquire how invoking our local representative's protection of cottage boards from impossibly deeper cuts applies to this issue. Certainly MPP Chris Hodgson's intervention should be praised. One must most definitely ask, however, how, exactly this makes it appropriate to absolve the province of any consequences of the cut, lesser though it was.

All of this comes down to one central issue:

the right of, and the need for, citizens to take their grievances to the government responsible. And to be very sure that government is made to understand its responsibility. And that it be made to listen, however obstinate it may be.

Citizens' frustration is understandable. When so criticized in the recent past, both the provincial and federal governments have readily pointed to the mandates they say they were given to cut spending, or to economic theories that support such moves. Confronted on a specific issue, the province seems particularly ready to retreat to such general ideological defences, as though the justification for any cuts justifies all cuts. The implication seems to be that those who debate such decisions at all are somehow traitors in a desperate war against a looming crisis.

Such a position, to put it deservedly bluntly, is patently absurd, intellectually dishonest, and a flagrant abuse of Canadian citizens' trust in their leaders. Crisis or no, whatever direction ideology leads, cuts and their very real, human implications will be debated. All governments, from the federal through the province down to the boards, are advised to get used to it. And to seeing responsibility placed where responsibility lies.

In Remembrance

by Laura Anne Simpson

Forget not those who fought, and bled, and died,
Remember them with sorrow and with pride.
Forget not broken bodies and shattered minds;
Remember them and try to be more kind.
Remember those who for many years in hospital beds have spent their days; and those on crutches, or in wheel-chairs wend their ways.
Forget not all the thousands left behind;
In cemeteries they lie in foreign lands,
So kindly tended by some stranger's hands.
Remember too, the mothers, sweethearts, wives,
Of those who gave their blood, their limbs, their lives.
Remembering the horror and the tragedy of war;
Make now your vow to work for peace on earth,
That wars shall be no more.

'Dear Diary'

(NB: The Times wishes it clear that the 'diary' content of this piece is understood to be fictional and speculative. The writer has one child in elementary school.)

Editor:

I am very frustrated with the decision-making regarding school bus transportation. I know there are parents who are feeling the same, but do not know how to make themselves heard. The more people, the better the voice. In the meantime, please take a few minutes to read this very little step into the future:

Day 1: Dear Diary: tomorrow is my first day back at school. Mom got a letter in the mail last week letting us know that I have to walk all of the way to the main road to be picked up by the school bus. Mom was really mad, but didn't do anything about it.

Day 2: Dear Diary: Today was my first day back to school. I saw all my friends from last year. I was a little embarrassed walking to the bus stop because mom and my little sister came with me. Mom thinks that a bad person or a bear is going to get me. I don't know why she worries. I know my school wouldn't make me walk unless they knew I was safe.

Day 5: Dear Diary: Mom couldn't walk me to school today because my little sister Suzie had a really bad fever. I walked by myself. Mom is right. It is a little spooky in the bush in the morning.

Day 25: Dear Diary: Mom couldn't walk me to the bus stop again today because Suzie is teething and had a fever again. I missed the bus, but didn't know it at first. When I got to the bus stop, nobody was there. I thought I was the first one. All of a sudden a man stopped in his truck. Boy was I scared. He told me that I missed the bus, and he wanted to know if I wanted a ride back home. I ran all the way home because I was so scared. As I was coming back into the driveway, the school called mom. Mom said it was good that I ran, because I could have been long gone before she knew I was missing. Lucky me!

Day 45: Dear Diary: Mom walked me to the bus stop today. Mom, Suzie and I were really scared because we could hear guns in the distance. Mom commented that it was a good thing her coat was orange or the hunters might think we were deer.

Day 70: Dear Diary: I am a little sore today. I couldn't write in my diary for a few days because...

cause I was in the hospital. I was walking home from the bus stop on a really snowy night in the dark along the highway like I was supposed to. A plough came by and buried me. The driver did not see me until it was too late. He stopped the plough and was able to find me. He saved my life. He is my hero! Mom says I can't go to school any more until we get a new car. She is scared this might happen again. Next time I might not be so lucky.

Thanks from Studio Tour

Dear editor:

The Haliburton County Studio Tour would like to say thank you to the many people who helped make this year's Studio Tour a success.

To the two local papers, The Echo and The Times, thank you for the stories on the artists and for your assistance with the advertising. For an event such as ours your help is very much needed and very much appreciated.

To the inns, lodges, resorts, restaurants and stores and the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, thank you for helping us distribute our brochures.

To the year round residents and seasonal residents who help us by telling friends from outside the Highlands, thank you. Our guest book and the questionnaires handed out at the Tour indicate we had many visitors from outside the area who were first time visitors.

And of course, thanks to Mother Nature who helped us with a beautiful weekend.

Thank you to all.

Sincerely,

Rick Woods, 1996 Chairperson,
Haliburton County Studio Tour

Arthur Black

It was the weirdest thing. There I was, sitting in my own living room, reading a magazine, when suddenly my chair shuddered. I looked up in time to see china figurines dancing an impromptu samba on the fireplace mantel. The curtains on the window swished in time. It lasted maybe five or six seconds, then it was over. The curtains stopped rustling. The figurines stood frozen. My chair pretended nothing at all had happened.

My first earthquake.

I've been a flatlander most of my life, growing up in the stolid Precambrian shield that muscles over most of Ontario. The earth doesn't move much back there. Then, last summer, I moved to the West Coast and the rules to the game of life changed. Suddenly, I was working in a building which carries plaques assuring me it has been "earthquake-proofed". And I was crossing daily, bridges festooned with all kinds of extra doohickeys and gewgaws that I'd never seen on bridges before. They were cables and rods and suspension mechanisms designed to make sure those bridges remain standing even if the earth around them doesn't.

The West Coast is majestic and thrilling and temperate of climate, but it is also the earthquake capital of Canada. Dozens of mini-quakes nudge this part of the country every week. The one I felt was "moderate" — a 5.5 on the Richter scale.

The experts say we can expect The Big One some time soon. Those same experts say it could be three thousand times more powerful than the one I felt.

Earthquakes are like having kids, getting audited or contracting a serious disease—you don't think about it much until it happens to you. Then you think about it quite a bit. I found out that the same week I got goosed in my living room, earthquakes happened in southern Italy, the Solomon Islands, central Japan, the northern Philippines, central Iran, western Turkey, the Greek Islands, Algeria, southern Alaska and various parts of central and southern California.

Mother Earth is a restless sleeper and she's apt to rumple the eiderdown suddenly, frequently and utterly without warning.

Earthquakes and their offspring—tsunamis, landslides, floods and fires—knock off about 20,000 human beings every year. The biggest killer ever hit China on January 24, 1556. It killed an estimated 830,000 people.

An earthquake is Mother Nature's way of saying 'Howdy'.

Not surprisingly, humankind has come up with a lot of explanations for earthquakes. In ancient Indian mythology there was a belief that the earth rested on the head of a giant elephant named Muha-Pudma. When Muha-Pudma flicked its ear—the earth quaked.

Ancient Tibetans believed a legend that the earth sat on the head of a cosmic frog. Other cultures had us perched on the forehead of a colossal tortoise.

And just in case you think this Muha-Pudma mumbo-jumbo is too primitive for smooth sophisticated Westerners like you and me, I should point out that after a significant earthquake in England in 1750, sidewalk entrepreneurs did a brisk trade in "earthquake pills". They were absolutely guaranteed to protect you from any future tremors.

The fact is, for all our scientific advancement and technological expertise, when a major earthquake strikes, we'll be just as helpless as any terrified Neanderthal in his cave.

Maybe more so—the Neanderthal didn't have to worry about flying glass, exploding gas tanks and downed electrical lines sparking and hissing.

And there's nowhere to run to. There's not a nation in the world or a province in this country that's immune to earthquakes. It's just that some places are more prone than others. Like the place I live.

You do what you can. You prepare your little "earthquake kit"—flashlight, first aid kit, a sleeping bag, emergency rations, extra clothes—and then you wait.

As for the Big One, the experts say it's not a question of 'if'. Just 'when'.

So we wait. And make two wishes. Wish number one: When the Big One comes it happens far out at sea, and the damage is minimal.

Wish number two: That the next time 'the earth moves'. It's because we're in bed with a loved one.

Very Scary

It was a cold, cold Hallowe'en. But not too cold for haunting. This crowd was sighted rattling their chains in Beckers in Minden.

Redmen Hockey

The Redmen will play host to Campbellford Tuesday, November 5, 1:30 p.m. at the Haliburton Arena

Senior Redmen champions in spite of loss, coach says

by Jerry Grozelle

"We really won, but we lost on the scoreboard," said Tim Davies, coach of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School senior Redmen football team. The Redmen played host to the Crestwood Mustangs of Peterborough Friday during snow flurries and a biting west wind. In spite of the fact that the Haliburton team did everything right, the Mustangs went back to Peterborough with the Kawartha championship by edging the Redmen 18-15.

"We had the opportunity to win, but we came up short," Davies said.

The Redmen fell behind in the third quarter, while the Mustangs had the wind in their favour.

A missed field goal attempt in the fourth quarter and three more chances for touchdowns within striking distance of the Peterborough team's end zone failed to produce for the Redmen.

"In the last eight minutes we had three opportunities to win it," Davies said.

The elements the game strategy for both teams, Davies added.

Mike Bradley had a career game," Davies. "He scored both touchdowns on simple running plays on 70-plus yard runs. One was on an off-tackle and the other on a dive hole. Nobody could catch him.

"I believe this guy could be an all-Canadian tailback at any university where he cares to play," Davies said.

Greg Simmons stepped up to play quarterback for the championship game when regular quarterback George Godfrey was unable to play because of illness. Davies said Simmons handled the job admirably.

The Redmen suffered a casualty when Jamie Swinson was injured on the second last play of the game. He was taken to Haliburton Hospital for repairs to his knee. The extent of the injury is unknown.

"The game of football is a wonderful thing," Davies said. It teaches a lot of things."

Davies wasn't shy with his praise of the team.

"The Haliburton team walked off the field as champions," Davies said. "I think they know that. They supported each other all the way.

"We train harder than any other team we play against," Davies said. "The Redmen are the best Iron Man (able to play both offense and defense) football players in all of Ontario. They are gladiators. I'm proud of each and every one. They are wonderful young men."

TOO CLOSE FOR COMFORT: The Crestwood Mustangs had to fight to keep the Redmen out of their end zone in the late stages of Friday's game. The Mustangs held the Redmen at bay to preserve the victory and grab the Kawartha championship

Home Hardware dumps Hartwick 12-4

by Jerry Grozelle

Home Hardware skated to a 12-4 victory over Hartwick Construction in the first of two Minden Men's Hockey Association games October 28. Home Hardware built a 5-0 lead in the first period before the Hartwick crew got on the scoreboard with three in a row. The first period ended with the Home squad in front by a 5-3 count.

The Middle frame saw Home Hardware add two unanswered markers to its tally for a 7-3 advantage.

Hartwick Construction was outscored 5-1 in the third period.

John Walden and Joe Sullivan led the attack notching three goals and two assists each. Mike Keaney and Dean Sisson added two goals and two assists apiece. Scott Nesbitt netted two goals and one assist. Scott Brodie contributed to the win with four assists, while Steve McCracken and Derrick Moore had one assist each.

Westside 5, KDD 4

The evening's second game was a much closer contest, with Westside Jug City shading Kountry Double D 5-4.

Westside played catch-up for most of the first two periods. KDD scored first, but before the opening frame was over, Westside was back on even terms.

KDD went ahead 2-1 in the second period, but Westside rebounded with two in a row to take a 3-2 lead into the third.

KDD tied the score early in the third, only to have Westside notch two in a row for a 5-3 advantage. KDD got one more before the game ended, but it wasn't enough to salvage a tie.

Ben Manuge, Gord Wood, Tony VanLieshout, Sheldon Ferguson and Kent Taylor were the Westside snipers with one goal each. Jamie Dollo notched a pair of assists, with single helpers going to Darnell Gilbert, Taylor, Stevenson, John Teljeur, Marty Dettman, Wood and VanLieshout.

Monarchs feel Caygeon Cougars' bite

by Paul Lowe

The Bobcaygeon Cougars were in town recently and handed the Minden Monarch peewee B hockey team a 9-1 defeat. A scrumbly first period gave the Cougars a 1-0 lead. Bobcaygeon came out in the second frame, adding five unanswered goals, setting the stage for the win.

Once again, Mark Snell played a strong game in the Minden net, facing 54 shots from the visitors. Snell didn't allow any of the opposing players to score on several breakaways. Most of the goals that were scored came on the second or third try.

Minden's lone goal came on an effort by Jordan Campbell. Campbell played a physical game, handing out a number of checks which earned him the respect of the visitors. Barry Dunn, who assisted on Campbell's goal, also had a breakaway in the third period. But the Bobcaygeon goalie came up with the save. Ryan Porter, playing with some of the evil spirits carried over from Halloween, proved one again that he will hit anything that comes his way.

The Monarchs played in Woodville last week and by all reports, Barry Dunn gave the performance of his young career. In the same game, Jordan Campbell was another strong contributor.

The game ended with a 6-0 win for the Woodville squad.

Last Tuesday evening, Haliburton defeated the Monarchs 3-0.

Redmen dominate, Mustangs win

by Bruce Griffith

The HHSS Redmen junior football team lost a very close match to a strong team from Peterborough, the Crestwood Mustangs on Thursday, October 31. It was the Kawartha championship game.

In very cold temperatures and high winds, the Redmen dominated the Peterborough champions but lost the game in the last four minutes.

A nervous but highly motivated Haliburton squad marched the ball well in the first series of the game to score a touchdown. Jason Henry read the excellent blocks, scoring on a hand-off from quarterback Mike Morissette. The convert was made by Ryan O'Neill.

The Haliburton defense was strong in the first quarter, stopping two big marches by Crestwood and recovering two fumbles.

The second quarter was also dominated by Haliburton's defense as they picked up another fumble and had several behind-the-lines tackles. Running the option play for big gains was Mike Morissette, with great blocking from his offensive line.

With seconds left in the first half, the Redmen offense came within four yards of scoring again, but were stopped by a well-coached Crestwood defence.

The second half saw both teams play well defensively, but the Peterborough offense, with its size and speed, could not be contained. After a long march down field, Crestwood scored a touchdown, but the convert attempt was blocked by Redmen linebacker Jon Swinson.

With the score at 7-6 for Haliburton going into the fourth quarter, it was either team's game. With the best passing game ever between Matt Reid and Mike Morissette, and some superb kicking into strong gusts of wind by Ryan O'Neill, the Redmen came on strong but were stopped from scoring several times.

Haliburton's defense was tiring and with four minutes left in the game, Crestwood's size overcame the Redmen and the Mustangs scored again. The convert attempt was good and Crestwood took a 13-7 lead.

Tired and bruised, the Redmen refused to give up, and with less than a minute to go, the march toward the Crestwood end zone began. An excellent drive left the Redmen still 25 yards out with six seconds left on the board. The Matt Reid bomb was called for the first time this season. The Redmen did everything possible, but luck ran out and their superhuman efforts went unrewarded. The HHSS football season ended one week too soon.

Coaches Griff, Brohman and Marsden wish to congratulate this squad on a terrific season. The memories will last forever. A special thanks to captains Wayne Kernohan, Nathan Koz, Jason Henry, Mike Morissette and team managers Jeremy Durkin, Jess Wallace, Sarah Ladurantaye and Marita Schrader.

'94 Outdoors Cards expire in December

The Ministry of Natural Resources reminds anglers and hunters to check the expiry date of their Outdoors Card. Cards issued in 1994 expire at the end of 1996 and need to be renewed.

Application forms will be mailed automatically to the address on file for those whose current card is coming up for renewal. Cardholders who were expecting a renewal form and have not received it by late November should call toll-free 1-800-387-7011.

Forms should be completed and returned to the MNR immediately to ensure that they are processed in time before the beginning of the next fishing or hunting season. This is especially important for hunters who plan to enter one of the 1997 wildlife draws.

The fastest and easiest way to renew an Outdoors Card is by telephone using a Visa or Mastercard. Instructions for renewing by telephone are contained in the mailed renewal package.

Anglers and hunters must have a valid Outdoors Card to purchase a fishing or hunting licence.

ther savings.

Warden Fearrey proposed that Haliburton's municipal governments retain Barber's consulting services. He suggested that an independent review of each municipality's operating system may reveal further savings.

Barber said that his team of experts would look at the various efficiencies and put together a package from which everyone can benefit. He pointed out that one municipality may be using a system for a certain function which is more efficient than other systems in use. Standardizing the most efficient methods of conducting business throughout the county would maximize savings for all municipalities. "There are many other economies to be made," Barber said. "Everybody can benefit from the efficiencies achieved in other municipalities."

The county administration will also be part of the financial analysis, if Barber and his team are given the green light to go ahead with the analysis.

The cost of the analysis will be shared by the ten municipalities by apportionment (according to assessment). Barber has done some work for Dysart in the past and Warden Fearrey says he is confident that Barber and his associates are well qualified for the job.

"He's as expert as anybody on the subject of municipal planning," Fearrey said, adding that he's sure all municipalities will benefit from the exercise, if only to be prepared for the future.

"We have to prepare ourselves financially," he said.

Barber says he has already looked at some numbers and he sees some areas where savings may be realized.

When asked by Cardiff Deputy-Reeve Doug Holman how the provincial government can be convinced that amalgamating municipalities in Haliburton County would not be the beneficial route to take, Barber replied, "You'll have to convince the provincial government you are as efficient as possible."

Fearrey, who acted as chair of the meeting, said he

Tender process by-passed

was afraid of what might happen if the county does nothing, and waits for the provincial government to take the initiative and specifies what Haliburton County must do.

"I think it will be money well spent," Fearrey concluded.

Those municipal councils which had a quorum of representatives in attendance at the meeting voiced their approval. But before any decision is made to hire Barber's company, all of the county's ten municipalities must pass resolutions of approval. All municipal governments will have met within two weeks of Thursday's meeting, and if all councils pass the appropriate resolutions, the study could begin shortly after that.

The evaluation process is expected to take about 45 days.

At least one municipality is taking a cautious approach.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Jeanne Anthon asked Barber for some background, noting that there may be other municipal representatives who had little or no knowledge of his background. Barber explained his credentials briefly. He and his associates, are available to meet with councils in the interim to explain how the analysis would be conducted.

Fearrey requested that those councils which would like to meet with Barber, arrange a group meeting so Barber doesn't have to make the presentation several times.

"I don't know what I was expecting when I went to the meeting," said Anson, Hindon and Minden Deputy-Reeve Jerry Rome.

Rome wasn't comfortable with the process. Being unfamiliar with Barber and his organization, he is apprehensive about making a decision based on a 45-minute dialogue.

"There are questions that need to be answered," he said. "I was a little taken aback with how fast it happened."

Rome agrees that the time has come for outside consultation. "I think it's where we have to be, but I'm concerned about the process," he said.

Rome noted that some taxpayers may be concerned that there will be a $15,000 charge and that it isn't going through the tender process.

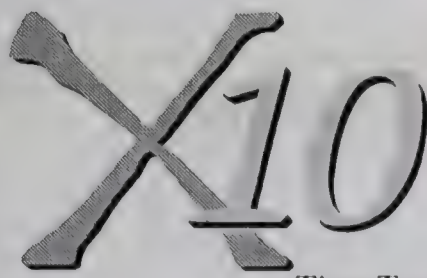

Rome said that the province seems to be backing off slightly with regard to amalgamation.

"They seem to be saying you don't have to amalgamate, but the funding cuts are coming and you're going to have to deal with them the best you can," he said. "We're going to have to stand on our own two feet."

Rome said that he can't see any immediate, substantial savings. He says that any savings will be realized in the long term. He also believes that discussions between the municipalities appear to have reached a stalemate. They seem to have gone as far as they can without outside advice.

If approvals are forthcoming from all municipal councils, Barber and his associates could get started as soon as mid-November.

ing. Council's only action in that vein so far was a letter sent only to a few immediate neighbours of the site, reaching them days before the meeting at which the by-law was moved that enters the township into the agreement to accept the waste. The by-law was passed at that meeting, October 7, and would be enacted immediately upon confirmation of the MOEE's approval. The township's draft of the by-law states that notification was sent ten days prior to the meeting, by first class mail.

A MOEE representative told The Times two weeks ago that council does have a responsibility to provide a genuine opportunity for public comment on the issue, and to report those comments to the Ministry. Council had not previously told residents this was the case. The Ministry reported two weeks ago it had received only one letter from a landowner on the issue via council.

It is since then that landowners have been in touch directly with the Ministry on the matter. And that, at least, say some, did give them a little more encouragement.

"I got in touch with them," said Diane Thompson. "And I think they've got a pretty good sense of what's going on here now."

Residents were also critical of the fact that council sent announcements of the recently announced open house only to residents who had directly voiced concern, meaning only a bare handful were notified, this time roughly a week before the event.

The Times reached three residents who had received notices. Notices arrived in the mail, they say, October 31 and November 1 — nine days prior to the open house, planned for November 10.

Municipal clerk Ernie Hills confirmed that council had only sent announcements to people who had made comments. He says he believes some announcements were also posted in public places near the dump, and at the landfill site itself.

The MOEE does classify the material as 'non-hazardous', and accepts it for fill in landfills. But many residents are less than reassured by this.

"If it's so safe," said Lee Jasper, a neighbouring landowner, in an interview early after the story broke last month, "why aren't they burying it down there? Why truck it so far? I've heard the MOEE's tests aren't always exactly exhaustive. I do not feel good about this. I don't know. But I'd sure like to find out... And if I do find out I'd like a chance to say something."

The Minden Community Emergency Food Cupboard has been extremely dedicated and busy servicing this community. From May to mid-October it provided food for 862 people. In addition to groceries, each family was given a $10 voucher for perishable foods.

The Food Bank has to buy additional food to supplement donated items. The cost of operating this service is approximately $1500 month. Members of the Pastoral Charge - Maple Lake, Zion and Minden United Church's are asked to bring non-perishable food items the second Sunday of each month.

Unfortunately that will not likely be enough. Monetary gifts and food items need to come in on a consistent basis. Canned meats, fruits and vegetables, macaroni, spaghetti and spaghetti sauce, soups, peanut butter, rice, coffee, tea and sugar are constantly in demand on an emergency basis.

Monetary gifts of $10 or more are eligible for income tax receipts.

Volunteers are urgently needed too. Food Bank hours of operation are Wednesday from 12 noon to 5:00 p.m. and Saturday from 10:00 a.m. to 12 noon. For more information, call Mary Hicks 489-2297, Barb Walford-Davis 286-2042 or Irma Walker 286-1778.

Badminton is now being played in the ASES gym each and every Monday starting November 4 from 7:45 to 9:45 p.m. This recreational evening is for those of high school age to seniors. For more information call Bruna 286-2301 or Lois 286-1765.

St. Paul's Anglican Church, North Water St., Minden is holding its annual turkey dinner on Friday November 8. There are 2 sittings - 5:00 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Advance tickets are available at Campbell's Flower Shop if you want to be sure of a seat.

The County Town Museum and Pioneer Centre Committee held it's final meeting of the year and committee chair, Irene Moore, reports a very successful 1996. There were 128 separate events and 2900 signatures in the guest book. "Our museum is a wonderful addition to the activities in our area," said Irene. "Many thanks to coordinator Marvella Smith and all the volunteers who worked so hard to bring our history to life".

To cap off a successful year, mark Sunday December 15 on your calendar - there will be a Christmas Carol service in the Wee Kirk at 2:00 p.m.

The winner of the October draw at the Kinmount Legion was Dennis Pearlless from Bobcaygeon, who walked away with $79.25.

The Crohn's and Colitis Foundation is having an educational meeting on Thursday, November 7 at 7:00 p.m. at Victoria Manor, 220 Angeline St. S., Lindsay. This is a 'can't miss' meeting as the speaker will be Dr. Kevin McHugh, who specializes in intestinal disease research. For more information call 705-328-0034, 887-3460 or 749-6313.

Congratulations to Beulah Hewitt of Minden who won 3rd prize in the Draft Pony Association of Ontario draw held October 27 in Beaverton.

Club 35 euchre winners from last Monday were Mary Pearson and Norm Lee with the high scores, Helen Henderson with most lone hands and Tom Pearson who won the 50-50 draw. Jeanne Penick and Stan Cline also were winners. Meet every Monday night at 7:30 p.m. All welcome.

Results of the contract bridge played last week in the Stanhope Library were first Russ Fair, second Betty Culley and tied for third Dorothy Strype and Muriel McIntosh. Muriel was a new player from Brady Lake and she was most welcomed. Two small slams were bid and made by Wynne Hansen and Russ and by Earl Hayne and Russ. Join them every Tuesday at 1:00 p.m. Partners not required.

Seniors bid euchre played at the Minden Legion last Tuesday produced winners first Bev Johnson, second Ellie Langpohl and tied for third Margaret Fletcher and Trudy. Hidden score went to Marie (more on page 19)

26 YEARS IN REAL ESTATE WORKING FOR YOU.

SAC adds to the spirit at HHSS

by Sue Carr, HHSS student reporter

The third month at school has arrived and the snowy months will soon be upon us, but with help from the Student Activity Council (SAC) at HHSS, students are not dreading the upcoming dreary days of winter. This is because, according to SAC members, the upcoming days of winter won't be that dreary.

The 1996/97 Student Handbook explains to students that, "The Students' Activity Council (SAC) is your elected student government which promotes a positive social atmosphere at HHSS and will endeavour to represent your interests first and foremost." After two months of school, students are finding that this is true.

So far, the SAC has arranged three dances, a chocolate bar fundraiser, a barbecue, several theme days, including "red and white" day, "dress like your parents" day and "orange and black" day and an assembly. Each activity contributes to school spirit and makes sitting in class all day a little bit more fun.

Student Council has many projects on the go as well. It's hoping to have a snack machine or pop machine installed outside of the cafeteria, which will be handy for after hours, and a semi-formal promises entertainment in December. Last week, in honour of Hallowe'en, a pie eating contest, dress-up day and pumpkin carving contest and a techno rave were held.

"We're off to a good start," says SAC staff advisor Paul Longo. "SAC is a wonderful group with lots of enthusiasm and we've got a lot of big plans for the next little while."

These big plans require lots of dedication and hard work but the group is focussed.

"We all pitch in and work together," says School Co-Captain and OAC student Bronwen Winsley.

"This year," notes Longo, "I'm finding that students are taking more initiative. The SAC is student-driven."

Members of the Student Council usually meet at lunch hours, however, they occasionally stay after school in order to get bigger projects done. One of these bigger projects is prom, which is sure to be an exciting end to the year. It's the event that Meg Agnew, Grade 9 Liaison and Grade 12 student, is excited about. "We're going to see how magical we can make it," she says.

Chocolate bar sales this year went well, and a lot of the money will be going toward different activities for Spirit Week in February, and any guest speakers who visit HHSS.

Anyone who becomes involved in the SAC deserves a lot of credit. A lot of hard work is required and the time it consumes makes studying difficult, though few of the members seem to be having any problems.

"I got involved because I want to make the school a better place," says Agnew. "You get to meet people, have fun, make people have fun, get known."

COUNTY OF HALIBURTON AGENCY FOR CHILD ENRICHMENT INC.

is seeking a Supervisor for its
Mobile Family Outreach Program

The program is one part of a community project. Federally funded by Health & Welfare Canada under the Community Action Program for Children initiative.

Our C.H.A.C.E. Mobile Family Outreach Program provides outreach services to Haliburton County's rural areas by setting up portable family resource programs in each community for two to three hours once every two weeks.

Through regular evaluation, our program meets key objectives aimed at increasing positive interaction; empowering families; promoting peer interaction and support; facilitating the optimal health and social development of children and developing "protective factors".

If you are a candidate who truly embraces an empowerment philosophy and have excellent communication, management and statistical skills, we invite your resume to: Dianne Loucks, Executive Director, C.H.A.C.E. Inc., P.O. Box 1064, Haliburton, Ontario K0M 1S0. All resumes must be received by November 13. Only those candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. 11A
